

Home learning week 32

We have loved hearing and reading about all your half-term news and sharing some amazing posters about plastic pollution! 😊

This week we have:

- Practised relay races and long distance running for sports day!
- Thought about our favourite things to do at school and what we've improved over the year.
- Played guess who with our mini me pictures and written down the clues for a friend to read.
- Used the bee bots to input directions.
- Looked and felt for different natural textures in Forest School and made our own butter!
- Used estimating in maths, making sensible guesses about how many gems are in a jar.
- Made a Father's Day card and written a special message.

Home learning: Do something kind and helpful for daddy on Father's day 😊

Reading: Alongside your child's guided reading books, please use the Oxford Owl reading website to access books from the colour band that your child is reading at the moment. If your child is confidently reading their reading book, can they write a sentence about part of the book?

Have a lovely weekend! 😊
